

Very Short Paper Proposal: Unconditional Cash Transfers

Justin Abraham, Nathaniel Bechhofer, and Minki Kim

Summary Statistics

We use the data from a randomized controlled trial of an unconditional cash transfer (UCT) program conducted in rural Kenya.

Table 1: Summary statistics on the random assignment

| Variable                        | Mean  | Std. Dev. | N    |
|---------------------------------|-------|-----------|------|
| Female respondent               | 0.5   | 0.5       | 2880 |
| Male respondent                 | 0.5   | 0.5       | 2880 |
| Treatment                       | 0.349 | 0.477     | 2880 |
| Control HH in Treatment Village | 0.351 | 0.477     | 2880 |
| Control village                 | 0.3   | 0.458     | 2880 |

Table 2: Summary statistics for selected variables

| Variable                                  | Mean   | Std. Dev. | N    |
|---|--------|-----------|------|
| Age (respondent)                          | 34.786 | 14.005    | 2876 |
| Marital status (respondent)               | 0.772  | 0.42      | 2880 |
| Years of education completed (respondent) | 8.688  | 2.925     | 2880 |

For each variable, the first row corresponds to pre-treatment and the second row to post-treatment variable. Respondents were asked to report their age and marital status, along the gender.

Table 3: Summary statistics for selected variables

| Variable   | Mean    | Std. Dev. | N    |
|--|---------|-----------|------|
